Cox, Replying to Harding, Tells What Will be the Chief Issue of the Democratic Campaign

(Associated Press)
Columbus, July 14.—Charging that Senator Harding has made his "front porch listening post," Governor Cox today issued a statement replying to Harding's statement yesterday that the Wilson administration had saddled the league of nations upon him as the chief campaign issue. Gov. Cox said his campaign would be dedicated to the task of "bringing peace with honor, with the readjusting of the affairs of civilization and creating a new day, out of which we will make the best of the lessons of the past."

SIR THOMAS LIPTON AND HIS SHIPS

Squarest Sport in All the World Again Here in Quest of the America's Cup

(Associated Press)
New York, July 14.—There's a little bit of Ireland floating off the Jersey coast and its ruler is a familiar figure in yachting flannels and cap. Its Sir Thomas Lipton and his "navy"—six craft strong—invading the United States to capture the America's cup in a yachtsman's battle off Sandy Hook this month.

The man to whom a large patch of water is an alien sight thinks of the cup races as a few impromptu jousts between a couple of sailing sloops which cost a little more than the average man can afford. He does not realize that these yachts and their crews have to go through a period of training as long as that of any football team and a thousand times more costly.

By purchase or charter Sir Thomas has amassed his fleet. In addition to the challenger, Shamrock IV., and the trial horse, the 23-meter Shamrock, there is the steam yacht Victoria, the flagship of the fleet, on which the veteran yachtsman lives, anchored each night in the Hudson.

Then there is the houseboat Killarney, tucked snugly away in the shelter of the Hook. On the Killarney reside the crews of the two racing craft.

But this does not complete the fleet. There is the tug Governor Smith to tow the sloops to the starting line and a snappy speed boat to run errands. Numberless smaller launches and dingies don't count in this yachting armada.

The Irish baronet has his daily schedule—enjoyable enough, but just at present a business to which he adheres as closely as the broker daily watches his ticker.

Each day he steams down to the Hook from New York to watch the challenger—his sweetheart, the elderly bachelor calls her—match her speed against the trial horse.

Each day, as dusk approaches, he holds conference with his band of yachting experts, suggesting little changes here, little changes there, little changes there, smoothing out a ripple in a club-skip which to the landlubber fits exactly or clipping a few inches from a topmast with which, to the uninitiated, there seems nothing wrong.

And each day he continues to deal out dollars to the 150 members of his armada. For it is an expensive sport, this quest of a hundred guinea cup or victor or loser, Sir Thomas will have paid out more than a million dollars for this year's races alone.

At eight o'clock, excepting in most distressing weather, raising of Sir Thomas' personal flag—a green shamrock on a field of gold—betokens that the vice-commodore of the Royal Ulster Yacht Club is aboard, awake and ready to receive guests. These invariably include a corps of newspaper men. Most of them come for breakfast, stay for lunch and linger for dinner, and as sea air breeds an appetite, the yacht's larder receives a blow which would make the ordinary housewife quiver in these days of high prices.

Then the Victoria weighs anchor. Recognized by all harbor craft, she receives salutes from stoutest tug to most majestic battleship.

Sir Thomas stands on the bridge—the familiar, blue-jacketed, befeathered figure who for years has crossed the Atlantic to win the trophy on which he has set his heart. He strokes his gray goatee and his face wrinkles into a roughish grin as he swaps yarn for yarn with his innumerable guests.

For Sir Thomas must have his joke. One of which he is particularly fond concerns a visit once paid him at Cowles by former Mayor John Fitzgerald of Boston.

The baronet was entertaining a group of Americans when suddenly it was reported to him that the royal launch was headed for his craft. "The king or the queen," cried Sir Thomas and at once began drilling his guests in court etiquette.

But the royal launch, which rarely carries any but royalty, arrived with a lone Yankee.

It seems that Mr. Fitzgerald, wishing to pay a visit to his friend the Irish yachtsman, had been unable to find a craft which he deemed sufficiently natty to bring him alongside. But finding the royal launch at the royal landing stage, he pronounced it "a decent enough boat" and ordered it to the Lipton yacht.

Meanwhile the king and queen, reaching the stage, beheld in amazement their launch dashing away from them. And the master of the small craft, on his return, had this explanation to make—the gentleman had introduced himself as "the mayor of Boston, United States of America," which the royal yachtsman, impressed, compressed into "the mayor of America." And of course a man who would dare march onto the royal landing stage must have stepped onto it with royal permission.

And so, chatting of kings and stowaways, yachts and intrigues, he entertains his guests until the Hook is reached. And as Sir Thomas is never so well cast as when he is playing the host, it is an enjoyable trip.

REDDICK IS ON THE RISE

Hustling People of that Section of Our County Have No Use for the Eight-Hour Day

Reddick, July 13.—Say, Jupiter J. Jones, what's going on in your neighborhood?

Am told the Millwood Dairy Farm has been milking 110 cows this spring. That sure some milking.

The Atlantic Coast Line has two full sidetracks and four spurs within two miles of Reddick, and there are on the Tampa Northern and A. C. L. within six miles of Reddick 11 sidetracks and spurs. The railroads have not built these sidetracks and spurs for fun, but for business.

Johnson, the cold storage and ice man, told me he cured 75,000 pounds of pork in the Reddick cold storage plant last season. There are cold storage plants at Oak, Ocala, Dunnellon, Williston and Reddick—five pork curing plants all close by.

There were carloads of hogs shipped from Anthony, Sparr, Martin, Lowell, the lime kiln switch, Millwood, Orange Lake, Southside, Levine and Fairfield, all within 10 miles of Reddick. The Reddick neighborhood is sure in the hog business.

Williams, the lime plant man, is busy working seven days in the week, 24 hours per day. No eight-hour day business with him. He is sure doing some business.

Conner Carn, he is our postmaster, Sunday school superintendent, school trustee, peanut butter maker, farmer and one of the best all-around hustlers there is in this end of the county.

Foster Rou, the boss of the co-operative vegetable shippers at Lowell, got off seven carloads of tomatoes in one week lately. Foster has the smile that wins. rides in a new Dodge car. He is manager of the Wetumpka Fruit Co. groves and he likes a baseball game.

H. T. Hall, Lowell postmaster, told me that there were received at the Lowell postoffice July 1, 47 different bank statements in one mail, and 15 years ago there was but one regular bank statement (monthly) received at Lowell postoffice. That tells what Lowell is doing.

Five new settlers bought lands in the Reddick neighborhood in the last year and all of them are farming and will add to Reddick's growth and prosperity.

The bond issue for a new school house that lately was carried unanimously in this precinct is now being felt. The new building was started this week. It will be built out of rock, and be built to last eternally.

There are 11 general stores, a drug-gist, doctor, preacher, K. of P. and W. O. W. lodge in this precinct.

Reddick is doing good. Room for more. The farmers are hustling as they never did before. Jupiter Jasper Jones says if you want to be among good folks come and settle with us. We'll do you good, keep you busy and put a hustle in you.

OCALA VS. GAINESVILLE

Don't forget that tomorrow afternoon at Hunter Park, Ocala will cross bats with Gainesville, and Gainesville is coming here with a good team to try and take a victory back with them.

The Ocala boys are out every afternoon practicing hard to keep the University City from chalking up a victory against them. Every one should attend and make this a baseball afternoon, for the boys need every fan out to help them win. Luffman or Stone will be on the mound for Ocala, while it is understood that Katz from Jacksonville will twirl for Gainesville. Manager Goldman has been lucky in securing the services of Mr. G. E. Morgan, a has-been big leaguer, as catcher for the Ocala team.

COLORED PEOPLE QUIET

As Usual, Reports of their Uprising Proved to be Unfounded

(Associated Press)

Roxboro, N. C., July 14.—Rumors that negroes intended to blow up Roxboro because of the lynching of Ed Roush, a negro, caused the authorities to place armed guards about the town last night. The night passed quietly and it is believed there will be no trouble.

This little joy-ride down the bay to the serious work of the day.

The racing sloops, lying at anchor with mainsails and club-topsails set, awaiting the arrival of their master, look as stike as two peas to the landsman. And the vegetarian smile is carried out by the hulls, both painted a lively Irish green. The only apparent difference is that the Shamrock IV. is just a little greener than her partner, for ever her decks are emerald.

As soon as the Victoria's engines are stopped, that veteran of international regattas boards his launch to inspect his craft before they set out. From that moment he becomes lost to all but things maritime.

Round the course Sir Thomas follows his sloops as they race and after the finish again holds parley with their skippers. Then it's back to New York in the evening—the day's work done.

ALLIES FOOLING TIME AWAY

Had Better Turn the Job of Persuading the Germans Over to Foch

(Associated Press)

Spa, July 14.—No disposition has been shown by the Germans to yield to the allies on the coal delivery question. The allies continue firm, insisting on the delivery of two million tons of coal monthly. Marshal Foch has arrived and Field Marshal Wilson of England is expected tomorrow.

TEUTONS GIVEN MORE TIME TO TALK

In an effort to compose differences between the Germans and allies and prevent a break up of the conference, the French have arranged a meeting between Lloyd George and the German foreign minister to be followed by one between Lloyd George and Millerand.

HE'S SAID IT BEFORE

Lloyd George emphatically told German Foreign Minister Simons the allies were not bluffing and intended seriously to take measures of enforcement for execution of the Versailles treaty unless the Germans accepted the terms.

FARM NOTES BY THE COUNTY AGENT

In view of the price of corn the present hog market is very unsatisfactory. Hogs are bringing 35 cents and corn $2.50. When it is remembered that 12 bushels of corn are required to make 100 pounds of pork on the average class of hogs in the county, it does not take a Solomon to see that feeding corn to hogs is a foolish piece of business. Even for hardening peanut-fed hogs it is not wise to feed corn. At the present ratio between the price of corn and hogs, the corn is worth 100 per cent more if sold as grain than when fed to these animals and marketed as pork. Certainly, no one can blame the farmer, who has hogs and only corn with which to feed them, for selling his corn and disposing of his hogs to some one who has peanuts, chufas, and other cheaper hog feeds.

The majority of the hog growers in the county have not been in the business long enough to know that there have always been periods of small or no profit followed by periods of fair profit in pork production. It is the same in every industry, and only those who remain "faithful" in season and out of season come out successful. The habit of selling out on a log market and buying in on a high market is a losing game. It not only means a direct loss, but prevents the grower being in a position to raise and feed hogs profitably when the paying period in the business returns. Better times for the meat producer are certain to come and it will be a mistake to go entirely out of the hog raising business. The wise thing is to keep the breeding herd together and ready for increased production upon the return of favorable conditions. If obliged to reduce the herd, be sure to keep the profitable breeders and have some young gilts coming on that can be put into the breeding herd.

Now is the time to begin plans for a fall and winter garden. It is plain that we can not wait until fall to plant, if fall vegetables are what we want. Besides, the fall garden to be a success must be started while there is plenty of rain and before the dry time of the fall months. July is the time for putting in rutabagas, turnips, carrots, collards, cabbage, etc.

In the latter part of August, the fall Irish potato crop should be put in, and the seed potatoes should be placed in cold storage for a month before planting to insure good sprouting. If it is not convenient to do this, it will be well to place the seed potatoes in a shady place where there is good ventilation and keep them covered with straw, or old sacks, and sprinkled every few days. As soon as the eyes are well sprouted, cut and plant without letting the seed be exposed long to sunshine.

It will be a fine thing for every one who plants a fall and winter garden, to keep in mind the county and state fairs and try to grow some vegetables for exhibition purposes. It is a settled thing that there will be a big county fair in November, and Marion county ought to make a better showing this year than ever, not only to measure up to her past performances but to show that she is progressing.

Wm. A. Sessoms, County Agent.
